TREY JOHNSON

The purpose of our organizations, Trey Johnson ministries, Trey Johnson leadership, and Trey Johnson roping schools is for people to know God and be their best. Our vision to get this accomplished is to “reach the world with the gospel and change lives, one thought at a time. How will we achieve this (our plan)? Through TV, books, magazines, radio, social media, and every available voice. One service, one leadership teaching, one roping school, one roping or rodeo, one person, and one thought at a time.

Trey has been in the ministry since 1998 and has been a part of several different church start-ups, pastoring for almost 9 years and traveling to other parts of the country and the world the rest of the time. Trey was the 2000 PRCA resistor rookie of the year Heeler in the team roping and has won major rodeos and roping competitions throughout his career. He continues to compete professionally to this day and conducts roping clinics worldwide. Trey is also an executive director for the John Maxwell organization, the world's number one leadership development organization, and conducts workshops and leadership development on all levels to all age groups. Trey is also an author of books and an international speaker. He is the weekly host of “Being Your Best, with Trey Johnson,” currently reaching approximately 500 million people worldwide weekly on Dish TV, Direct TV, and several other TV networks.

Trey is married to his beautiful wife Heather, who is in the ministry with him. They have three kids: Maci, Hayes, and Chloe. They live in Weatherford, TX, and Trey is honored to be part of what God is doing around the world.
